our story

The idea behind blingsting came about when my dad kept buying my mom and I the ugly, masculine-looking pepper spray from the local car wash. My mom, who loves pink and sparkles, suggested that if we made a cuter version, that girls would be more likely to carry pepper spray. My dad came up with the name 'blingsting' and I knew we had a winning idea.

After receiving lots of press and getting our products into thousands of retailers across the country, we are on our way to creating an entire line of personal safety products that are as cute as they are practical.

We love what we do and are having so much fun seeing girls getting excited and engaged in their personal safety for the first time!
